FLAMENCO

June 28, 2:00pm. Part of the Ballet in Cinema Series, recorded Live, Teatro Real, Madrid. Two pieces: BODAS DE SANGRE & SUITE FLAMENCA.

BODAS DE SANGRE

In 1974 Antonio Gades would take a huge step forward for Spanish dance with the creation of his ballet Blood Wedding, or Bodas de Sangre, based on the play by Federico García Lorca, who in turn was inspired by the news of an incident that took place in Nijar in 1928. It was adapted for ballet by Alfredo Mañas, who had already collaborated with Antonio ten years before in Don Juan.

SUITE FLAMENCA

Is a series of numbers that offer a surprising take on the aesthetics of flamenco dance, with solos, duets and group dances, all the sides of flamenco dance as seen from Antonio Gades' own perspective.

It is an excellent chance to see a way of dancing flamenco that is no longer used, which was described in his day as avant-garde and considered a classic. The Cinematique Theater, 242 S. Beach Street, Daytona Beach.
